Forecast For London & Southeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Tuesday 13 Apr 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Cold, but fine start. Then scattered showers and sunny spells.

Today:
A cold start with sunny spells. Cloud likely developing through the day, along with scattered showers, perhaps heavy at times during the afternoon. Some parts staying dry, however. Feeling a touch warmer than recent days with light winds. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Tonight:
Clear spells likely, before cloud spreads south around midnight, along with the odd shower. Most parts staying dry, however. Feeling cold with mist and frost patches where clearer skies persist. Minimum temperature -1 deg C (30 deg F).

Wednesday:
Variable cloud and sunny spells throughout. Most parts staying dry, although a few showers are possible again. Temperatures near normal, but cooler towards the east coast, with an onshore breeze. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Little change with sunny spells and near normal temperatures after cold, and occasionally frosty or perhaps foggy starts. The odd shower possible Thursday, and perhaps Friday, but otherwise largely dry.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.